

Qingyang Han

December, 2020

General Information

Department of Economics, Johns Hopkins University
3100 Wyman Park Dr, Baltimore, MD 21218
Email: h.q@jhu.edu Cell: +1 (667) 206-8148
Citizenship: China (F1 Visa)

Education

Ph.D. in Economics, Johns Hopkins University, 2018~present
M.A. in Economics, Johns Hopkins University, 2020
B.A. in Economics, Minor in Mathematics, Peking University, 2018

Research interests

Labor Economics, Market Design, Economics of Education

Research Papers

“Structurally Estimating a Model of Centralized School Choice and Student Performance” (In-progress dissertation project, under the supervision of Prof. Robert Moffitt)
“An Empirical Model of Status Quo Inertia and the Design of Welfare Programs” (Second-year research paper, 2020, under the supervision of Prof. Robert Moffitt)
“Research on the Impact of Urban Resident Basic Medical Insurance on Unemployment” (with Julie Shi and Gordan Liu) Chinese Health Economics, 2018, vol.4

Professional Experience

Research assistant to

Dr. Julie Shi, Yi Yao and Gordon Liu, Peking University
“Modeling Individual Health Care Expenditures in China: Evidence to Assist Payment System Reform”

Teaching assistant to

Dr. David Bishai, Health Economics, Fall 2019
Dr. Bruce Hamilton, Elements of Microeconomics, Spring 2020
Dr. Robert Barbera, Elements of Macroeconomics, Fall 2020

Computer skills

Stata, Python, MatLab, Latex

Language skills

English (fluent), Chinese (native)

Awards and grants

Joel Dean Undergraduate Teaching Award, Johns Hopkins University, Department of Economics, 2020
Department Fellowship, Johns Hopkins University, Department of Economics, 2018-2023
Merit student, Peking University, 2015, 2016, 2017
Leo Koguan scholarship, Peking University, 2015, 2016